Danica Firulovic's White on White series explores pure minimalism. Working with pure colour (white) and pure geometric, free-floating forms (squares, rectangles, circles) and exploring their relationship within the pictorial space, her paintings are a visual experience of exactly what is in front of the viewer. White, flat, hovering shapes appear, sometimes overlapping, as a result of layering white oil paint on linen, creating stark, balanced compositions, where the outer edge of the support, often left bare and unpainted, is of equal importance.

The geometric shapes, hard edges and simple palette of the paintings pay homage to minimalism, exemplifying purity and non-representational art influenced by the work of Kazimir Malevich, Robert Ryman and Barnett Newman.
